cover-title, 112 p. 25^{cm}. (Bulletin of the Geological society of America, v. 20, pp. 1-125)
"An incomplete edition of this bibliography was published in the Archivio do Museu nacional do Rio de Janeiro, vol. 21, in 1903. The proofs, however, were not sent by the author and many serious errors were overlooked by the printer. The great number of titles added, the corrections made, and the growing interest in the geology of Brazil have encouraged the Geological society of America to publish the present list. Dr. M. A. R. Lillo has now begun the publication of an annual annotated bibliography of the geology of Brazil in the Annuário da Escola de minas"—p. 1, footnote.

Stultifera Navis ...

Latin and English text: the Latin that of Jacob Locher (1497) with reproductions of the woodcuts of the original edition of "Das Narrenschiff" 1494. The English portion of the work is in Gothic type, the Latin in Roman.

The preliminary matter, dedication, commendatory verses, prologue, argument, etc. is chiefly in Latin; the "diuers other workes adioyned" are: 1) The Mirror of good Manners. Containing the foure Cardinal Vertues, compiled in Latin by Dominique Mancos, and translated into English by Alexander Barclay priest. 2) Certaine Epilogues of Alexander Barclay Priest. Whereof the first three containe the miseries of Countries and Countes of all princes in generall, gathered out of a booke named in Latin, Miseric cordialis, compiled by Erasmi Silivius ...

A Portuguese edition appeared earlier in the year. This edition in English carries various modifications: in some chapters, the text has been reduced while in others it has been expanded in the attempt to present a more coherent expression of the essential aspects of this country. New data which has become available since the issuance of the Portuguese edition has also been included. cf. Explanatory note.
